Headmaster's Message

One of the most compelling attributes of the BCS faculty is that teachers and houseparents continue to learn

..., and consistently, their favourite lessons are taught by the students in their charge.

One of the best lessons I have had this year was from Chao-Ien Lee on the day she spoke to the school about her service project in post-Katrina New Orleans. It was no longer enough, she said, to take responsibility for herself – to work hard and to do well in school; she had to do something more, to go outside herself, to help others.

It's about responsibility and at an early age, we have none. Everyone does everything for us and we do nothing for anyone. Our parents get tired of this phase fairly soon and urge us to take more and more responsibility for ourselves; and we do... and we grow up... and move toward that illusive dream called freedom and independence.

Somewhere in there, we start to look outside ourselves; first we see the needs of others, then we worry about others, and then, finally, we do something about it. We try to help.

This may come as a surprise to some of you, but at BCS, we have had students come to us who were still far too much in the first stage, waiting to be waited upon. A couple of months at BCS and they begin to understand that they are in fact responsible for the consequences of their actions (or inaction) and we build from there. We build toward you becoming responsible not only to yourselves but also to those around you, and in an increasing number of instances, to people whom you have never met.

That's why I am proud of the numbers 104 and 66 and 41.

Last year, the first time we focussed on the Duke of Edinburgh Award on a school-wide basis, you produced 104 bronze medals. This year, there were 66 bronze and 41 silver for a total of 107. This measures personal and social achievement, and these numbers are indeed impressive. But they are no surprise.

Our extensive Student Life programme is built to foster teamwork, competition, sportsmanship, empathy, creativity, social responsibility, leadership, integrity, industry, discipline, determination, perseverance, courage and, please God, a sense of humour!

At the first meeting of the year on September 5th, I explained that our objective was not just the academic education of its students, but equally important, the whole person education so that we graduate students who become responsible, contributing citizens of the world – people not just able to make a difference, but keen to make a difference.

Think about all you've accomplished since then, and then think about all the times you heard yourself say, "Oh, I wish I had been a part of that!"

When I look back, it's really hard to decide what the year's highlights were.

Academically, I think of certain individuals – I won't name them – who got on the effort list for the first time, and stayed there! I think of the flow of university acceptances... the annual First Fruits massacre... and I think of lessons taught as I visit classrooms and of lessons presented on that March morning by the Form II students.

Athletically, I think of victories and defeats, of play-offs and championships, of the winning seasons – even undefeated seasons – and I especially think of the rebuilding grit and determination of our First Hockey team.

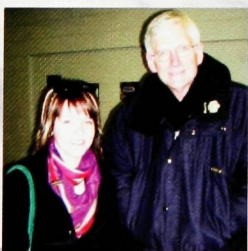

Artistically, I think of Stoker Arts and the Christmas and Spring concerts, of Leaving Home and Grease... and generally, I think of the Black Watch Parade and Cadet Inspection on that magnificent miserable day, of winter carnival and adventure trips on long weekends and Round Square Day with its walk for Amnesty International, of the Lieutenant Governor's visit and of Gwynne Dyer and Jake Eberts...

And indeed, you have accomplished a great deal this year, and you have tried to do even more. Wherever you go, whatever you do, build on what you have learned here.

Remember that you are responsible for the consequences of your actions... but being responsible for only yourself is not enough; you must take that responsibility beyond yourself and care for others. When you do, you will indeed make a difference.

This has been a great year because so many of you are already doing that.

It's been a year to remember.

RICHEENA CAMBELL

Sheena always carried a huge grin on her face, and when least expected, would throw in a witty joke. She wasn't the best at remembering things, but she made up for it because she was always willing to do more than was expected. Being so generous, she shared her cookies at every break – or maybe it was only because they always had chocolate in them... Her friendly personality will be deeply missed, and so will seeing her with the love of her life... a big yellow bear named Pooh

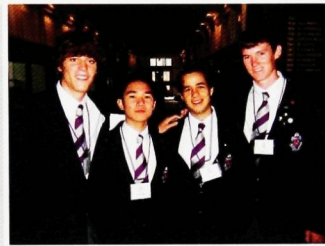

STEPHAN DYER

What can I say about Mr. Stephan Dyer Garcia Pacheco? Perhaps that he is the coolest loser on the entire BCS campus and that he LOVES bad jokes! He sings marvelously (what a surprise!), and he is known for his wonderful chapel readings... Do u remember the time when he said the same joke 25 times in one day? Although his hair is dirty, it always looks great, and I must say YOU ARE great! Thank U so much for the GOOD TIMES, we ALL love u and yur jokes so much!

ELISABETH LARATTA

EliSabeth Laratta from Yellowknife, NWT; tall... yeah and the fact that I'm only 5'5 as a guy... makes me feel even shorter. Elisabeth is a real full time student in every aspect; organized Sunday sports, played hockey among senior boys, of course outstood the intellectual part, and she still had a smile to share with the others. She is the spirit leader of the house and teams with strong attitude... and don't dare mess with her on the ice!

ANDREA MOXEY

I remember back to the day when she didn't want to climb the mountain on the prefect camp. But she stuck with it and it's gotten better ever since. She is one tough cookie who happens to like cookies. She's a great leader at BCS and a great prefect who is always smiling and laughing. This Bahama Mama may be lacking in height (she's the shortest prefect), but she makes up for it and then some in spirit. Just remember not to mess with her. I just have one more question to ask. Are you ready?

HISASHI OHARA

Running + calculus - choir(QM) + every1's tutor = Hisashi.

To someone who doesn't know him, he's a smart, quiet and gentle guy. But, BEWARE! He has tendencies to laugh uncontrollably and spaz out as well, jk. He's known for coming first in doing 21 km and he helps everyone. I couldn't have passed Calculus without him. Love ya homie!

CHODEN SHRESTHA

1 cup foolishness
1 ½ cup gorgeous
2 liters of bad jokes & pointless remarks
Dash of rhythm
1 Tbs of HOT DOG
2 Tbs of sporty
½ cup off key singing
¼ cup of pure kindness
A sprinkle of clumsiness
3 Tbs intelligence (be sure to check expiry date)
Dash of initiative
Mix ingredients together, bake for 9 months @ 350F.

NATASHA GUINDANI

Tasha, yet again we had to work together, what a burden and a blessing. It was more of a blessing since I got to join forces with one of my very best friends. I admire how you juggled leadership in cadets and prefects and did them both gracefully. I don't think this year would have been the same without you and I take full responsibility for burning the chicken. Good luck next year in Italy.

MAX ILLICK

Pretty smile and good jokes, well... some good jokes and some not so bad jokes, she's a fashion fanatic, has cow-skin car seats, is really nice and was born in little Ulverton just outside Drummondville, QC. What makes Max so special is not the fact she can't play sports to save her life... except curling... but that she's impossible not to love! You'll always find her making weird noises wherever she goes, apologizing to teachers for asking them to repeat the last sentence, trying to improve on her Tetris skills, laughing at random things... Oh Max! You Rock!

JONATHAN BATH

Jon, standing 6 feet 4 inches tall, is a guy full of jokes; he loves to laugh and does a great job in making others smile too. Jon can often be heard yelling NO HABS NO! down the hall, or teasing Mr. Daigle about any team that won against them. He is a hard worker in school and when not in school, he is the captain and MVP of the Basketball team, and he hopes to go to play on a university team. He not only has basketball skills but brings leadership to both sides of the court. Have a Good One Next Year!

I really want to thank those people who made my life at BCS enjoyable. Thank you I had a great time

I was a small cute blond kid in 2nd form, and now I'm a long dirty-blond haired sixth former. Thanks, Mr. Rae for everything, you have helped along the way. Thanks to all my teachers, my parents for kicking butt when I was behind...G.G, F.S., Chris peace out to everyone that made me the way I am today. Thanks again, and see ya around!

Well, it's been fun doing this all a second time. To past friends and new, to Christmas break, to pranks, and to Village Grec. I'm looking forward to seeing most of you guys back here next year, and to those who I don't; I hope to see you soon, and good luck. I'll end this with a quote from math class. Zoe: That looks pretty hard. Mr. Pfleger: Yeah- but it's pretty easy once you understand it. Boomer: Most things are easy once you understand them.

James Scott

Just like to thank Eddy, Chris, Brault, Eric Jennah, and all the ppl that were there for me. Big thx to my parents for giving me the opportunity to come here. Thx to Mr. D for making it awesome to stay in Chapman for all the years. Finally out now. ---Keepin' it Real--- Peace

I had a great time here guys, even though times have been hard this last year. And I know I haven't made it easy for you, so I'd like to apologize to all of those whom I've hurt deliberately and unintentional. I just don't always realize where I stop being and another person starts. I'm taking some of my best memories with me and I'd like you guys to do the same, so, no hard feelings, alright? ^_~ have a nice day!

After 6 long years its finally over, no more laughable shenanigans or pointless destruction and wondering where the last few years of my life went. As I leave this place and as the last part of a BCS generation block leaves for good I can only sit and fear for the future of this school. But for all you little people who have decided to stay and take our places, just remember to scatter and that BCS has insurance. Later Buddies, I'm off to create trouble for universities now.

I would like to thank my family for supporting me and providing me with the opportunity to attend an incredible school. Grandma, Grandpa, Dave, Mom, Dad, Uncle Gary and Sandy, Aunt Suzanne, Aunt Zelda, Mavis and baby Adam. To all my teachers for the lessons you have taught. To Mrs. Carr, for guidance. To Julie, for giving me nothing but warmth, love, advice, and encouragement. To Ms. Carey for structure. Mavis, my incredibly loving grand friend. Thank you to the amazing people I've met at BCS, for the friendships I've made I'll hold onto forever.

On a long road trip you always ask "are we there yet?" and can't wait to get out. And it's not until the ride is over that you realize how fun it actually was. Now as things at BCS come to an end, I realize that although the ride was long and bumpy, it was good for the most part. Thanks to all who came along for the ride.

Ian Matheson

I learned from several people this year. Thank you. I'll NEVER forget you, I promise. In the end it all came down to this: don't worry about the little stuff in life. Its not important enough. At least try to make the best of everything cuz life's too short to not do so: no matter what anyone says, in the end you just get one shot at it, and I'm not waiting till I'm 80 to have fun: JUST DO IT NOW!

While this was my first and only year at BCS, I have thoroughly enjoyed it. It always stayed interesting whether learning about obscure philosophers with Mr. Maxwell, Java from Mr. Tessier, and the many other things that I have gained this year. I should especially thank Mr. Tessier for being so tolerant (when he wasn't pelting something at me) of all my irksome questions and early morning visits to his office. Thanks to Mr. D and Chapman for a great year too. I will miss you all!

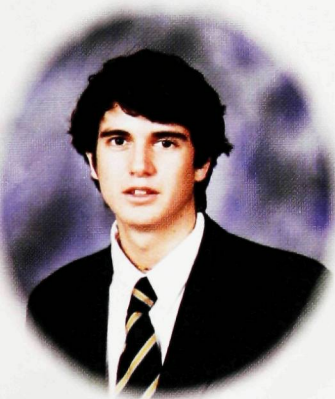

Andrea Moxey

In 5 yrs I have made some memorable people that will continue to share in many other changes and tribulations with me after I leave. Everyone that I have gotten to know between my day and my last you has had an immense affect on my life and I thank you infinitely for it. Prefects it was a blast this year, thx "life can only be understood backwards but it must be lived forwards." Love you "dre dre"

Thank you Mr. D for being so good to me, and treating me like a son. Jacques for being there when I needed you the most. Morgan, Jamie, Crys, Island galz, Amanda. I wouldn't have made it without you guys and I thank you for your support. The biggest thanks goes to my dad who gave me the opportunity to get a good education and my mom for her support. Thank you all! 20 years old! Finally I'm out!

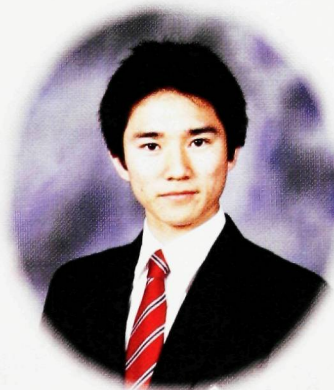

Yuka Nakamura

5 years of BCS was quite long, but fast. I want to say thank you to teachers and my friends, especially to, Chiaux2,Y2, Meg, Tomomi, Hota, and Yasuko. Thank you for those people who welcomed me during vacations. I hope to see you next time.

Hisashi Ohara

Already the end of 4 valuable years full of memories; never tired boyz and DaDa-ing Maya in South, great IHA and x-country seasons & of course classes. Unforgettable challenges; climbing up glaciers in Ecuador & endless run in Ottawa Marathon, and this beautiful green campus (although white for half a year) brought me a turning point, out of 55%-average life. I truthfully love this place!

Here we are, like Dorothy stepping out of the ramshackle farmhouse into a land of bright Oz Technicolor, minus the flying monkeys. The reds. The yellows. The blues. The ... other colors in the rainbow.

So why the splash of life on every page? Because we can. After enlarging the book in 2005, I felt the need to top myself. Something to look forward to in next year's volume... pop-up pages, scratch and sniff stickers and a music box that starts singing hymns when you open to certain pages.

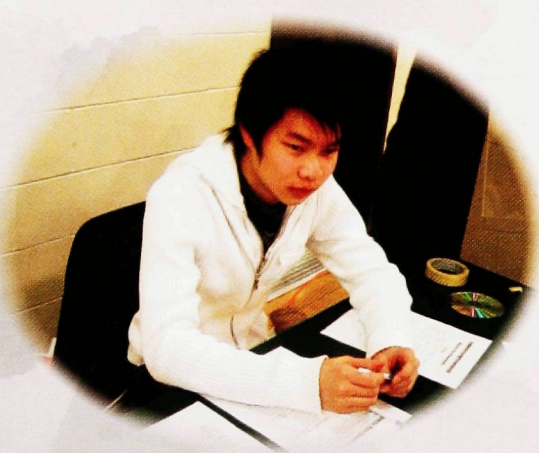

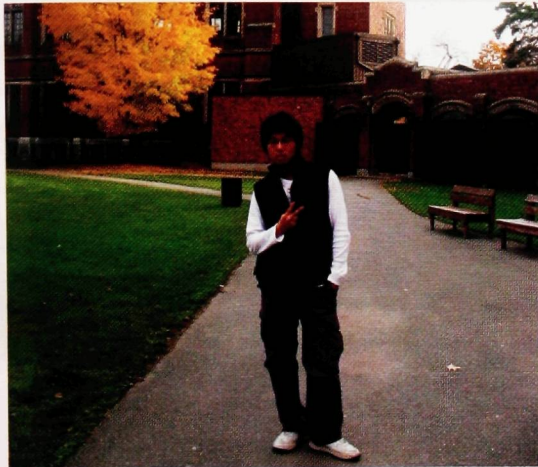

Okay, maybe not. Yet after the tardiness of last year, I wanted to give something back. I felt you folks deserved it.

To the crew - Elisabeth the grown-up, Jae "old man" Kim, Eddie and Kent - my silent yearbook ninjas, the youngsters Danny and William - a huge thank you. There are pieces of your hard work interspersed throughout these pages.

Also a gigantic shout out to Ernesto Gamiz, who managed to take more pictures for us than there are people in Mexico. Excellent job.

And where would I be without the Queens of Yearbook - Julie and Kat - you rock the block, and keep me sane.

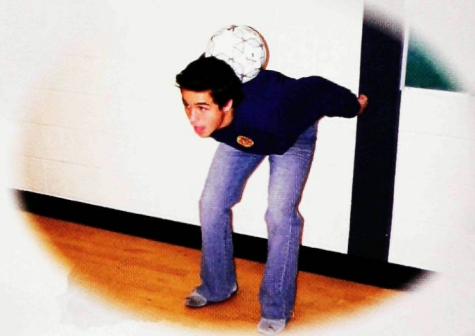

So enjoy the hues, the pigments, the shades, the tones, the brilliance, the chromatics, the iridescence, the vibrance, the that's as far as my thesaurus goes. You get the idea. See you in '07.

•If you were to get a tour of Smith House it might go something like this . . .

The first room is P-Love and Tuan, but unfortunately P-Love is not to be found. He is in Lennoxville with his girlfriend, like he always is. Yet Tuan is practicing his killing techniques on "Call of Duty" and playing with explosives. Next we have Lucas lying on his bed with his tablet playing "FIFA 2006" and Joshua sleeping during prep and working until the wee hours of the morning. You can hear Kevin screaming in his high pitch, dolphin voice and doing his "Crab Dance" and Brody has his room locked because he is afraid of Jimmy and complaining about being tired because he was up at 6 am running with Mr. Kelso. Kai is shining his numerous colours and finally escapes from his room because Jae Won is holding another Korean meeting, but once again, Kai forgets to put on his pants. The Koreans and Jae Won are holding the meeting because they are organizing the Korean team for the Mini World Cup which is only six months away. Across the hallway you can hear Q singing in four languages, while Jimmy runs downstairs to put some more rice in the rice cooker and plan some more pranks against Brody. Poor Seung wakes up after falling asleep watching a Korean movie on his portable movie player and screams, "AAAAHHHH! I missed the Mini World Cup meeting!" Gerardo singing a Spanish song in his starchy boxers while doing his hair. On the second floor you can find Justin playing on his Mac and Jeff eating some noodles in their room. And of course, Jae Hak "the Korean King" is having his third nap of the day while he should be studying his Calculus. While the Grandpa is sleeping with covered ears, Neil's girlfriend and parents are calling on his cell phone and finally after two hundred missed calls he picks up the phone while throwing Brody out of his "kitchen". Loudly down the hall, you can hear Ernesto, practicing his wake up call: "Good morning boys! It's time to get up!" while Ricardo is putting another band-aid on his forehead after hitting his head on the doorframe. Miguel has his music as high as it can go and practicing his throw while Brian is still waiting for Mr. Kelso to give him back his games. Gordon "the Flash" is sneaking downstairs as quietly as he can trying to steal some food from the kitchen, but Eddie is hard at work on his twelfth hour of studying that day and he is still worrying about his test that isn't for another week. Finally, Andy after eating all of Jae Hak's noodles, feel asleep on Mat's bed and is dreaming of his girlfriend. Mats is sitting at his desk swearing in French while trying to study his Chemistry and Physics. While in the Common Room, Mr. Crowther is playing "Starcraft" on his tablet and Mr. Madison is circulating the house slapping people on the back of the head. And of course Mr. Liverpool is yelling at Kai and Brian to go put on some pants and Gerardo for being late in his room. Mr. Kelso is taking some people's tablets and trying to find some partners for his run in the morning. Last but not least, Mark, Smith House's BU is downstairs playing "Winning Eleven" on Xbox with his friends and complaining about his piles of work.

Smith House is like a firework . . . it goes out with a bang!!

Once upon a time in a house far far away... from the others, is a house for a certain kind of person, this house is called Ross House and its girls are quite unique. It's 8:08 in the morning and our Ross girls all pass the lovely Janina walking across the bridge. Inside, Sophie, Vero and Clémence are speaking in Franglais telling some random story to amuse us all. Keira, trying to make a grand entrance asks everybody if they saw her drive up to school as she runs off to find Émilie-Ann who is playing basketball in the gym for Provincial try-outs no matter what time of year it is. Our converted Galt Girls: Aisha, Laura and Carley join the group and quickly engage in the conversation. The Turcotte sisters walk in arguing in French about their most current love interest. They get interrupted by Jenn Harvey who is practicing her newest chapel announcement. Megan Vivares is gossiping the form II latest news to anyone who will listen making sure to avoid her sister Heather who is talking about her newest plan of attack with the Ross Boys. Chrissa's shriek of laughter fills the student centre as she laughs at her computer and Julie, by her side listens to the newest R&B hit downloaded illegally onto her tablet. Yasemine and Julia perform their newest song and dance, entertaining each other until the bell rings. Odre, our newest Ross member still thinks she's in William's looks frantically for Marilou and Britany to comfort her with smiles as they finish art and literature so early in the morning.

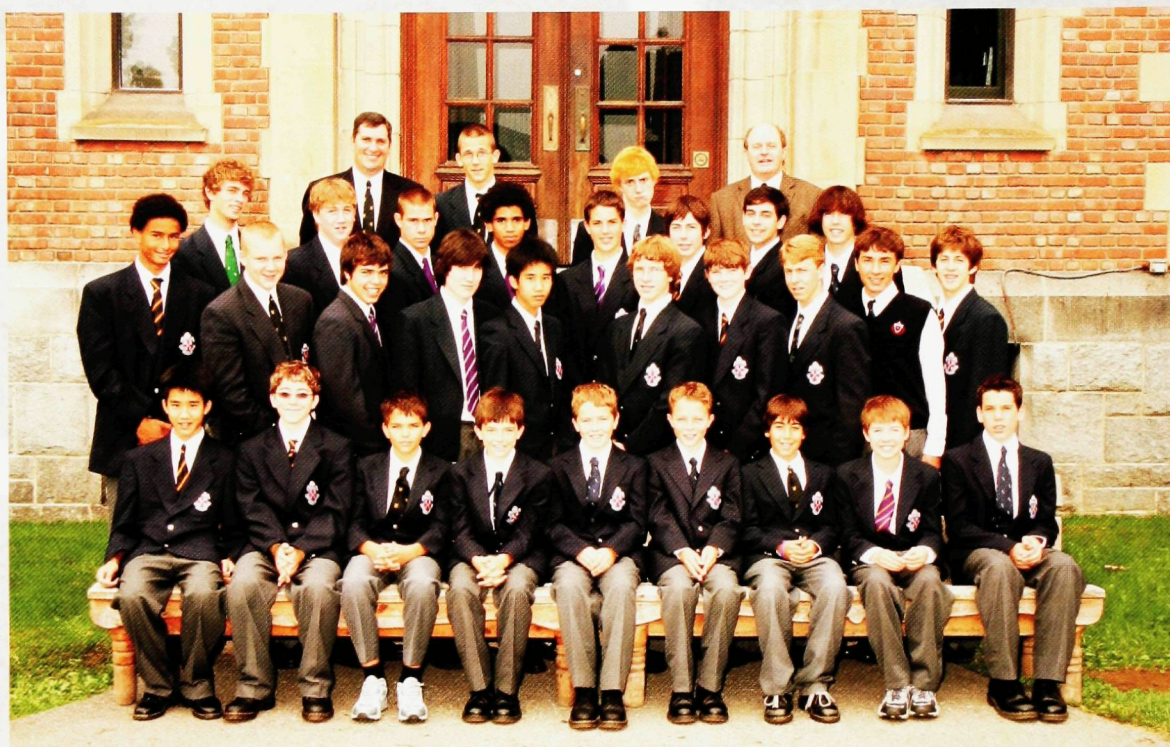

The bell rings and Arianne is only sprinting through the door and still has to put on her lipgloss. Walking into chapel, we see Emilie, our head of House sitting in the front row just behind her boyfriend and telling the girls to stop talking (she makes Mrs. Holland proud). Anne disregarding Em completely, shows Hannah, her braceless teeth and they snicker and talk during the prayer. Jennifer Harding-Marlin, her hair still wet from her early swim practice, stands up (she's won yet another award). Our form II girl power group, Hannah Carey, Laura Smith and Megan herring sit in the choir pews and sing with enthusiasm (even though we know they've only joined choir for the tie.) Chiao-Tien, as their choir head is smiling down upon them (she never stops smiling).

Mrs. Holland, our wonderful housemistress looks after us all, frantically taking attendance, looking around to see who's missing and still worrying about the last dress down day money that never got handed in. Though we may not live at school, Ross Girls still have much to contribute...

ROSS BOYS

Mr. D. Dutton (House Parent), Mr. J. Bray (House Parent)

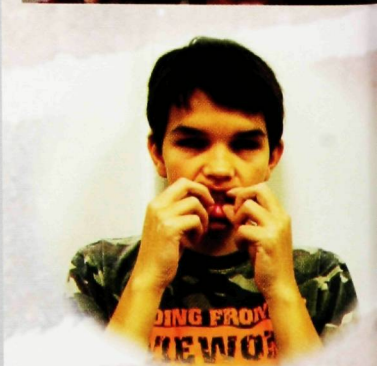

A. Mathieu, B. Wickens, C. Kouri, D. Cannon, D. Jansen, F. Taschereau, F. Sarrasin, G. Gelinas, H.L. Nguyen, H.S. Nguyen, J. Andrews, J. McLaughlin, J. Lefebvre, J. Ouelett, L. Lindstrom, M. Dudgeon, M. Brinkman-Smith, N. Rae, N. Bouchard, N. Laundry-Tolszczuk, P. Allen, R. Jervis-Read, R. Comeau, S. Mercier, S. Giguere, S. Robinson, T. Pasquier, W. Bradley, Z. Lyster

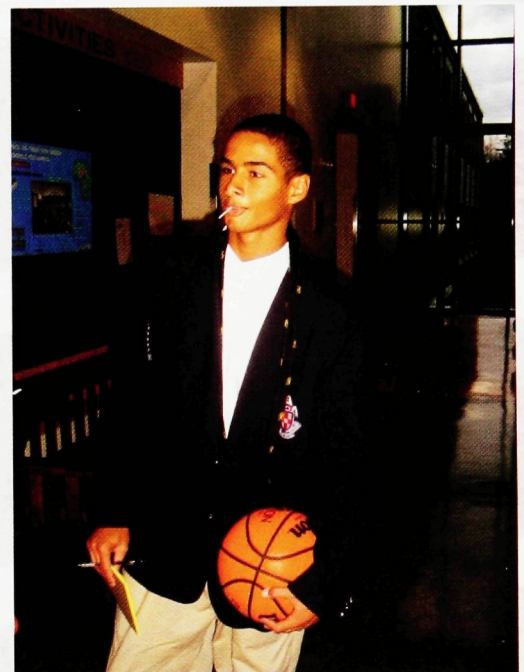

Ross Boys is a group of people viewed differently from all the other houses, so allow me to give you an exclusive sneak peak into the magical world of Ross. A typical Ross Boys morning is as follows.

The pool table is colonized by Forest and Gabriel at the earliest possible moment (the actual time is much too early to be recorded here), giving it up to no one except for when Felix and Matt beat them at break. The forth, fifth and sixth formers have also turned the couches by the Theatre into a permanent base, remembering a long lost time of when these couches were located in the great Ross House itself, untainted by boarder's bottoms. Hai-Long and Hai-son (if you can tell them apart) are talking about the chem. prep they never really got around to doing and paintball guns while Charles and Julien seem to be taking something in their tablets a bit too seriously. Brandon (or Chris) and Dominic transfer from one group to another, something that is not too common. The youngest Ross Boys, Monty, Nathaniel, Sacha and little Nic will too form an enclave with another group of couches to warm to their tablets glow.

At about 8:15 am the oldies (Will, Rich, James) make their appearance by trudging in half asleep, car keys in their hands, wondering how long they will be stuck here today. Ross finds itself with a unique defense mechanism when confronted with the campus dwellers seeing as how we can just start a fast moving French conversation to deter them, unless of course Luke is present and refuses to conform so. With chapel seconds away we can now see James making his presence known to Nic and Shawn amid a frantic last minute struggle to "borrow" ties, shoes and everything in between. In chapel while we all wonder where Rich is Mr. Dutton and Bray try their best to silence us with their empty threats and who can forget the British kids funny announcement voice As the school day progresses the only Ross Boy is sight will be Staz, who seems to never, ever have a class.

Of course Ross Boys can never really understood in some short piece of writing, it has an interesting ability to envelope people very quickly, for good or bad. Yet for another year this is our tale, and can somebody PLEASE get us bigger lockers?

•While on their way to Hawaii on a house vacation, a horrendous thing happened; the plane carrying all the Glass girls got caught in a storm and plummeted into the deep ocean. Luckily, all the girls made it safely to a nearby island with the Ms. Harding instructing them to swim. Upon reaching the island the resourceful Glass girls went straight to work. Houseparent Julie took charge with her best friend Kat and began clearing an area for a garden and searching for seeds to plant. Richeena and Birte saw this and decided to do a rain-dance, hoping that some precipitation would not only help the garden grow, but relieve the girls of the immense heat. Rebecca was very upset about this seeing as rain would interrupt her tanning; she had already scooped up a prime spot on the beach. Wendy, Angel and Natasha went immediately spear fishing with pointy rocks attached to sticks, knowing that soon the girls would be very, very hungry. Yuka, seeing that soon there would be food which would need preparing set out to clear an area for a kitchen, and used rocks to spark a fire. Monica began nearby to build a shelter out of banana leaves and branches, while Claire tried with all her might to sweep the dust away, claiming she refused to sleep in a dirty hut. Once the initial shock began to wear off, it set in that the girls were trapped with no one but each other. This caused some of the girls to get incredibly concerned. Ally decided to climb the tallest tree she could find in the hopes that she would see something or someone to help the girls, but all she found were some playful monkeys, which she soon realized she enjoyed the company of much more than the whining girls. Sam, on the other hand, had a much better idea. She began to drag pieces of wood and leaves to spell "SOS" on the beach. Unfortunately, she did not take the tide into consideration and after returning from the garden, she was left perplexed, wondering what had happened to her message. Jasmine, realizing that a meal with only meat was not a meal at all, went to explore the forest for fruits and vegetables; her aim was to make a delicious salad to accompany the fish. Upon seeing this, Regina realized that the girls would also need dessert and took it upon herself to create some make-shift Mexican candy out of sand and tamarind. Amanda, after finally recovering her cell-phone from the sand, discovered there was minimal service on a deserted island and began gasping for air. Being the lovely girl that she is, Elinor rushed to the scene to give her a soothing back massage. Yvonne, troubled at the stress beginning to develop on the island decided to relieve her anxiety by going for a nature walk, carefully checking she wasn't being followed. Searching for drift wood Bea stumbles across a conch shell and comes up with the brilliant idea to use it as a megaphone, hoping it would come in handy to get the girls attention. She sees Mel, sitting under a tree cuddling a volleyball, which miraculously was the only material thing to survive the crash, and whispering. Elizabeth, Caroline and Mercedes have long given up on the other girls and sit in a circle telling each other steamy love stories to make up for the lack of books and television. Every once in a while they glance over at Hotaru, Megumi and Danyan who are making a 5 foot high sandcastle, which towers menacingly over Andrea who is trying to construct a representation of Damien out of sand and getting frustrated as Justine sits nearby comparing this island to Bermuda... in the form of a song. Trying to escape this madness and twitching with her lack of caffeine, Moraima ventures into the woods in search of some plant she could mix with water to make Coca-Cola™. Lara and Lydia sit together in the shade, Lara trying desperately to assemble a telephone out of coconuts as Lydia gives her intricate instructions. They all look out onto the ocean to find Sarah surfing a massive wave, Eva waves as she passes by on her run in her effort to circumnavigate the island. In the woods, Yasuko, Max and Maria Andrea run into each other, each in pursuit of something different. Yasuko is looking for beautiful colored plants to mush into paint. Maria Andrea is searching for coco beans to add to coconut milk in order to make her much loved chocolate milk. Max is rummaging through the brush to find interesting pieces of nature she could form into a new outfit.

•It has been a long day on the island, but with all the work the Glass girls have put in to make the place seem more like home, everything seems bearable; they think to themselves that a life here might not be so bad. The girls are exhausted, they begin to settle down to sleep under the stars, when all at once a dreadful thought arises... THERE ARE NO BOYS!

Analyzed Characteristics of the Grier South [Exact opposite]

Grier South: Very clean house. Always peaceful, and smells like a Febreeze citrus all year long. Kids are well disciplined. People in Grier South are always quiet and do only what they need to do quickly and neatly.

Antony Bernard: Very tall, macho kid in the house. Never asks too many questions or gets involved in other kids conversations.

Alejandro Hernandez: Tall French kid. Never eats Mexican candy and always picks up his wrappers from the common room.

Alberto Ochoa: Predictable grown up man, does all the things he is required with out making mistakes. Loves his roommate Tony and never orders from Village Grec.

Alex(Bob) Nemet: Mean, hates the word "friend", and never gossips. Loves his roommate and has the cleanest room in the whole school.

Danny Shin: Mean, not cool, worst house captain. Hates trading guns, and does not like girls.

David Stenason: Hates Rock and Roll. Doesn't like chatting and never watches movies such as The Aviator over and over again.

Francis Gosselin: Has a quiet laugh and never smiles. Always calm before bedtime, and never gets in trouble by the TOD for horsing around.

Guillame Beiler: Tough, never whining kid. Love to fight and very sensitive. Enemy of Hugo and Romain.

Jae Kim: Loud boy. Not known as much in the house and never talks. Dislikes playing soccer and always cheers for Mexico in World Cup soccer games.

Joe Hseuh: Never asks for food from other guys. Messy room and is never seen with Kenny.

Kenny Hsu: Perfectly normal kid. Never thinks about conquering the world like Dr.Evil.

Kenny is nothing like Stewie.

Keiven Gagne: Always in bed on time and follows rules to the letter. Does not like sports such as rugby and soccer.

Kevin Lai: Easy-going and flexible. Hates hugging adults and TODs.

Luis Maggi: Smallest kid in the house. Always compliant and never wrestles in the house.

Mark Levasseur: Never moves during prep and is always very calm in the house. Never asks Simon for help with his homework.

Min Sung Hong: Hates physical activity and doing a full body workout after lights out. Never showers more than one time per day.

Nick Bradley: Hates WWII. Hates talking about guns and talking in general (actually quite secretive). Always follows Canada's Food Guide when planning afternoon snacks.

Nick Charlton: Calm and does not like talking. Always goes to bed (without playing on the computer) on time and never heard arguing with his roommate after lights out.

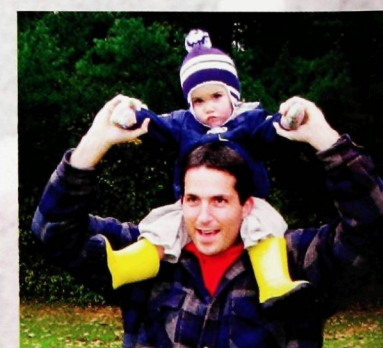

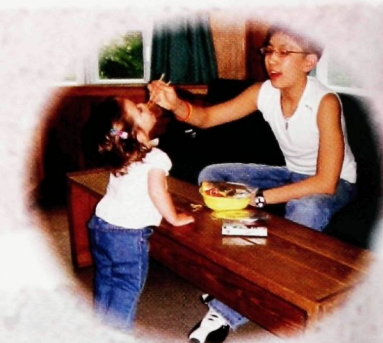

Romain Mathevet: Enemy of Hugo and French William (Guillame). Bull-headed kid from the North Pole.

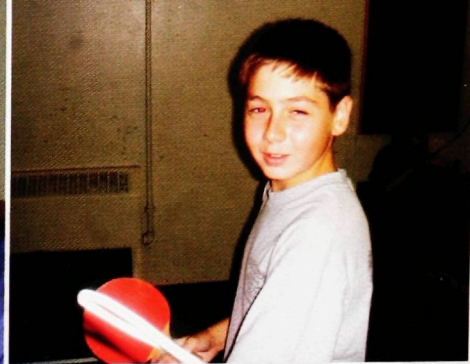

Simon Teed: His pants always fit perfectly and stay at his waist. Never changes hair style. Has good luck with playing rugby.

Jorge Antonio Maceda Ponce de Leon: Has the shortest name in the house. Never shows his charm or smiles. Always can be found studying at his desk.

Tony Chiang: Hard-headed, unmanageable; basically stubborn bully. Never follows the rules, loves Alberto more than his nice cousin Kenny.

William Choe: Always in bed on time and never sleeps through chapel. Excellent relationship with his roommate and has a bedroom floor so clean you can eat off of it!

It's Thursday night, and that means it is of course the O.C.!!! At 9 o'clock sharp, before prep has even ended, Ali, Claudia, and Marie-Saskia are sprinting down the stairs making their way to the common room, driving Ms. McGurk crazy. Sophie makes her way to the common room panting, from spending the night at school house prep.. Eventually, some of the girls settle themselves and watch a good hour of the O.C. MP is cursing that the O.C. girls should get a life. Mr. Pfliger and Ali are discussing what the heck Marissa is wearing. Meanwhile, for the non-O.C. fans like Eva who is tuning into her musical talent as the one and only bass player of the whole school. Her roommate Zoë is still on the phone with Chris.

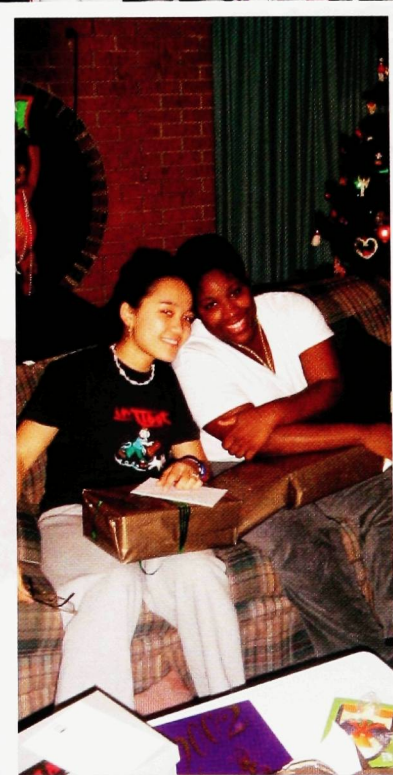

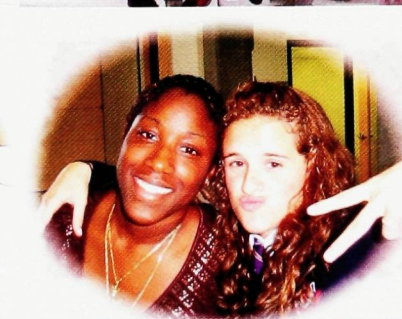

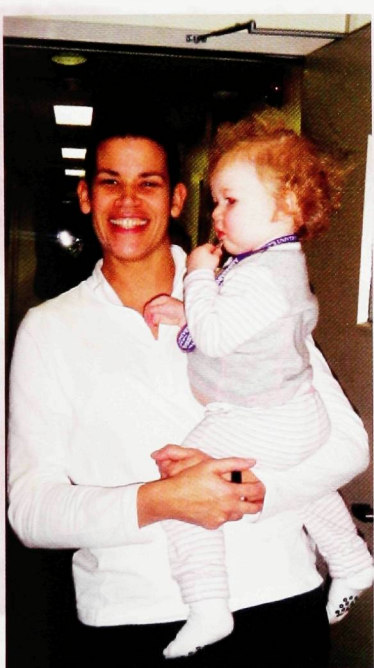

If you listen closely you would hear Heidi practicing for her future gig to becoming Beethoven. Ingrid is staring into pictures of her birthday bash when her aunts and uncle flew all the way from Paris just to celebrate with her. Down the hall, Bri and Steph (who love to hate each other) are bidding who will sell off their refrigerators first. Sarah is away at a swimming competition sweeping the gold, silver and bronze medals. Clara is captivated by Eric Millic who is working his charms on her. Maribel, is screaming in her room like the night after the dance because Tuan is talking to her on MSN. Tomomi, is planning what she is going to cook for Jasper when he comes over. Chrystal and Charis, the Bermudian twins conjoined at the hips are in their rooms braiding everyone's hair. Jenny Song is creating her own recipe with peanut butter and cheerios. Elean is making toasts...again. Gaby is browsing through Science formulas, her favorite subject. Eliane has gone to the kitchen to refill her fifth bowl of green peas, than burning all the energy in building her IQ. Mrs. Goldfinch is counseling the girls about anything ranging from boyfriend or boyfriend-less problems to sharing her insights on life.

Alejandra, bombshell in the making and roommate Ana-Sofia, the Mexican girl-next-door, are checking food labels for calories and always make sure they have huge bottles of water in hand. Monica, DON'T WAX. Val is on duty and officially the hippest T.O.D. who loves chocolate chip cookie dough ice-cream and as we all know will go to great lengths to get it, even if it means fitting one of the VII form girls to sit in the baby-seat of her car.

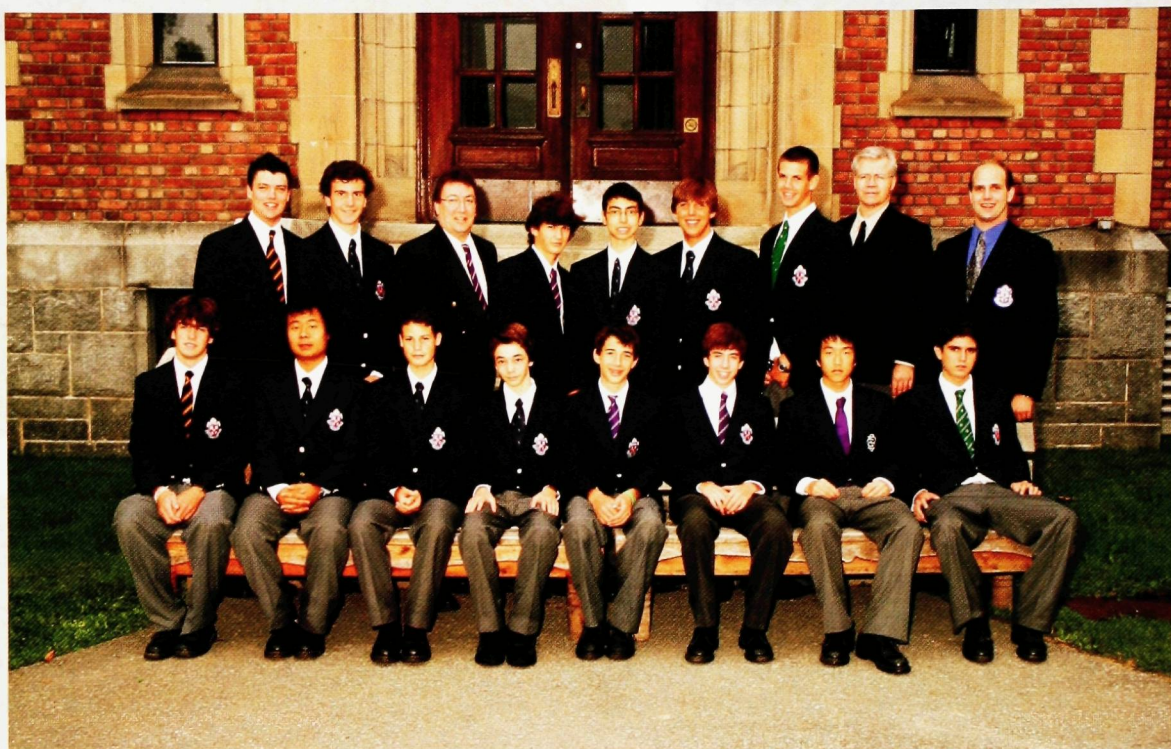

"TUCK!!!" Laura yells tuck for the 5th time in a row and Ximena and Courtney line up with handfuls of change stocking up on Smarties and Kit-Kat. In the secluded Annex, Elizabeth and Jenny Peng can't stop talking about Sunday night's episode of Grey's Anatomy. Choden and Jae Hee are coming back from Lenn with the latest movies. At 10:30 pm, Nat comes around the house and tuck all the girls in for bed with her warm smile and her caring presence.

Late into the night, when all the girls are sound asleep in bed, Carla creeps out of bed and tip toes into the shower...

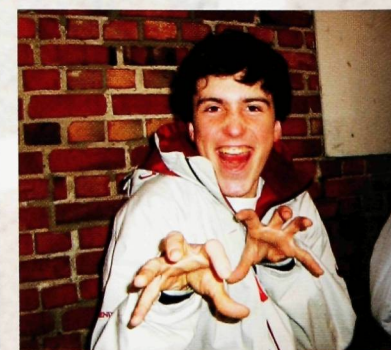

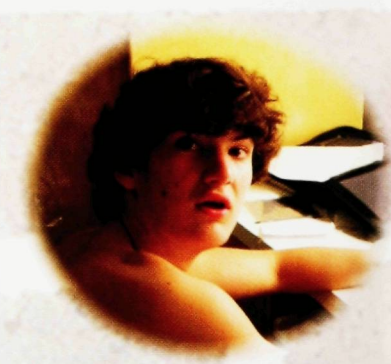

CHAPMAN

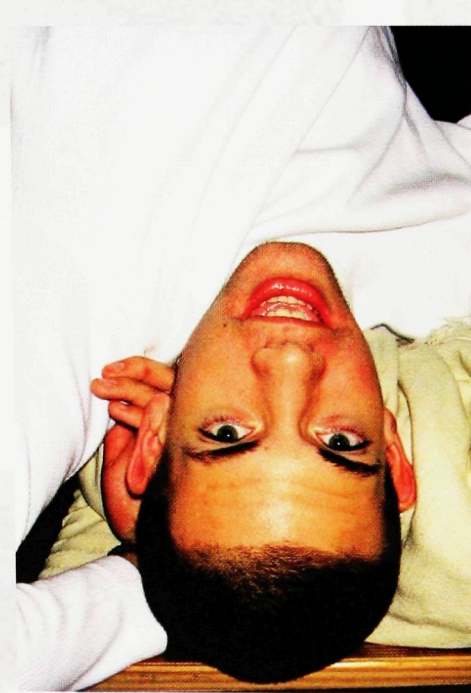

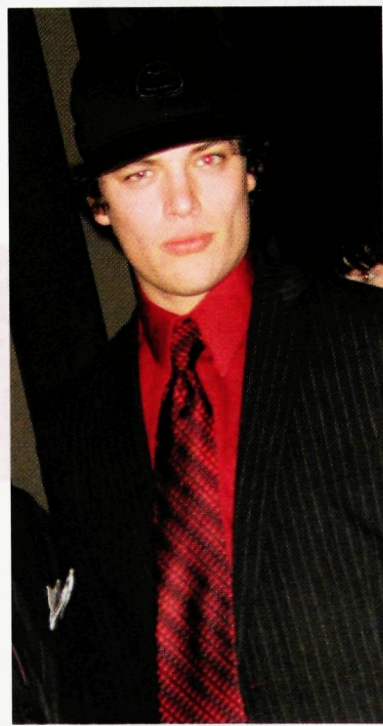

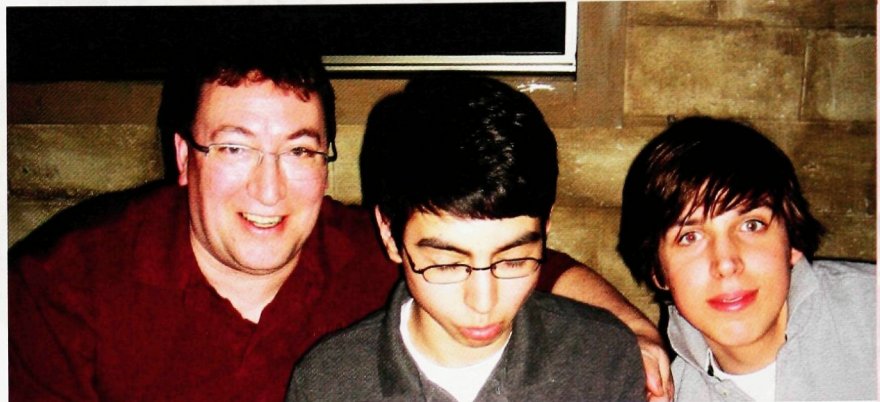

Mr. D. Dandurand (House Parent), Mr. E. Elson (Assistant House Parent), Mr. D. Pfliger (TOD), Mr. R. Jackson (TOD), Mr. D. Rae (TOD)

A. Brault, A. Meredith, C. Teed, D.H. Kim, E. Murray, F.C. Belanger, J. Scott, J. Kaufman, J. Bernatchez, L. Roberge, P.A. Limon Arrieta, R. Rodriguez, T. McConnell, M. Chung,

Welcome to the abode that is Chapman. Upon entering the house you pass a disarray of shoes and jackets whose actual ownership has long been forgotten. Past the unused notice board and initial covering of pictures of previous Chapman residents is the first hub of activity. To the right is our common room and kitchen. It's the best place to watch a good movie or just chill out. Directly across from the common room we find ourselves in Chris and Jamie's room, the rulers of the house, and they are quite literally room number 1. Moving on to room number 2, we find Logan and Alex. Logan can typically be found quietly drinking water and adhering religiously to his studies. Alex on the other hand is usually strumming on his guitar, singing, and talking on msn all at the same time. We don't quite know how he does it. Then there's room number 3 where no one can miss the sharp contrast between the 20 year old house legend Eddy and well Teddy. Eddy enjoys listening to Dancehall and Reggae, while Teddy is a rather quiet person and is well known for his rumoured monocle collection. We suspect that they were made roommates because of their almost identical names. Upstairs in room 4 are Julien (aka ET, Jules, Mr.Planters) and Jessie. Jessie has managed to earn himself dishes more than the rest of the house combined. He is notorious for leaving behind most of the messes that materialize in the common room. Julien is recognized as the universal house translator, and will translate even the most English things. He also laughs randomly at everything that is not funny. In room 5 we find Pablo and Ryan, another peculiar pair. Pablo often roams around the house confessing his undying love for Ch...I'll give you a hint it rhymes with Odin. Pablo came to the house quiet, but was less so after his violent encounter with a common room window. Ryan is a very dramatic person, the Mr. Actor of the house. When he wasn't busy cleaning up at swimming competitions, he did his best to rule the rampage on the second floor when he wasn't part of it. Then there is room 6 and 7, separated by the legendary playstation room where various parties meet for some time on the playstation and other extracurricular activities. Room 6 is occupied by Allen and Dong Ho? We're not sure if Dong Ho actually lives here, but the delivery man assures us he does. Allen is an individual of many bizarre talents that include weird throat noises and the ability to score higher than anyone at Tony Hawk's Pro Skater on the playstation. Finally, Frank and Michael live in room 7. Michael is the sexy soccer stud who inflicts pain on any who dare contradict him. Frank is well known for his skin tight boxer briefs which he proudly wears at all times and his knowledge on all things Quebec. Of course, we cannot forget Mr. D who, technically, can often be found throughout Chapman and is the Chapman King. Last but not least there is Earl, affectionately known as Ryan's Stud Muffin. He's always willing to lend a helping hand and harass Chapman boys to the best of his ability. Jamie and Chris take care of him when gets out hand.
